

Area Phone Rates Slashed

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Commonwealth Telephone Co. of Dallas received approval Friday from the Public Utility Commission to eliminate or reduce mileage charges in the Pocono Lake area of Monroe County starting July 1.

The PUC said the action would cut charges of 161 subscribers in the area an estimated $1,756 a year.

The savings will result from extension of the Pocono Lake exchange base rate area and creation of four special zones in the adjoining sections of Pocono Lake Preserve, Naomi Lake-Pocono Pines, Wagner and Blakeslee Corners.

Cuban Raiders Estimated At 50

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department said Friday fewer than 50 infiltrators may have landed in Cuba in the past two weeks from points outside U.S. territory.

At the same time it criticized what it called "inaccurate and highly colored" reports by Cuban exiles of bigger landings on the island. It said exaggerated reports harm the morale of anti-Castro elements in Cuba.

Press officer Richard I. Phillips ranking Kennedy administration authorities showed concern over assertions that the Miami-headquartered Cuban Revolutionary Council had landed sizable numbers of commandos on the Communist-ruled island.

Western States Ask Equality

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—A drive for recognition of Western states, couched in polite terms, was launched Friday at a meeting of the Republican National Committee.

Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado keynoted the movement when he said in a prepared dinner speech that Western spirit, Western accomplishments and limitless potential form a vital lesson for the Republican party nationally.

Italy Gets New Cabinet

ROME (AP)—Italy got a new Cabinet Friday night but the one-party lineup held no promise of removing the country's basic political troubles.

Premier-designate Giovanni Leone, former president of the Chamber of Deputies and a renowned mediator, put together a group drawn exclusively from the Social Democrat minority.

President Antonio Segni accepted the Cabinet and also signed a decree dissolving the caretaker government of Amintore Fanfani.

The formalities put an end technically to Italy's 36-day government crisis, but did little to remove the country's deep political confusion following the April elections in which Communists scored gains.

Police Nab N.Y. Gambling Ring

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Two hundred state troopers moved out at dawn Friday across upstate New York, arrested approximately 60 persons and said a statewide gambling syndicate grossing more than $2 million a year had been smashed.

The troopers, sometimes assisted by local police, raided homes in 19 communities. A Pennsylvania man, Cornelius Sullivan, was arrested by two New York State detectives and a Pennsylvania state police trooper at his home in Castle Shannon near Pittsburgh. He was given a hearing before Allegheny County Judge John Brosky and was released on $2,500 bail pending an extradition hearing set for Aug. 29.

Gov. Addresses APME Session

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — Gov. Scranton brought a group of Pennsylvania editors up to date Friday on his administration's legislative program—the passed, pending, and prospective.

The governor outlined in compact detail the program his administration hopes to achieve overall in a speech to an opening luncheon of the Associated Press Managing Editors Association.

Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The steel labor agreement was a tonic for the stock market Friday and it made its best advance of the week. Trading was moderate.

Volume was 4.19 million shares compared with 4.99 million Thursday.

The Dow Jones industrial average made a gain of 1.93 at 720.78.

State Dept. Denounces Cuban Commando Activity

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Both the State Department and a rival exile group Friday belittled the Cuban Revolutionary Council's commando thrust inside Cuba as a minor and harmful operation.

The State Department said the council may have put a few men ashore and it criticized "inaccurate" statements that "deceive and frustrate the hopes of anti-Castro elements" inside Cuba.

And the Revolutionary Anti-Castro Movement—UR—a large anti-Castro group which pulled out of the council last April, called the operation a publicity stunt.

The UR said its checks with the Cuban underground showed that the council operation was nothing but "a minor activity by a handful of men."

"The UR decries uncoordinated, haphazard raids made for obvious publicity purposes," the statement said. "These activities hamper major coordinated operations of the organized underground forces carrying the true load of the Cuban struggle."

"They also jeopardize the collection of intelligence leading to accurate denunciations of free world sea trade with Communist Cuba and of Soviet military personnel and equipment entrenched on the island."

The council backed down Friday after saying that a broadcast from inside Cuba came from its own commandos.

It had announced its commando forces would broadcast at 1 p.m. Independent monitoring stations heard a voice on the expected wave length.

"MRR, MRR, hello, hello. This is the commando station. This is the commando station."

The voice ceased, then resumed in a badly garbled broadcast: "We have received a great welcome from all contacts and farmers of the zone . . . What we said in our previous broadcast . . . Our mail arrived. Happy to meet the contacts in the different zones. According to the agreed points."

There followed a long list of numbers, presumably a code.

MRR is the Revolutionary Recovery Movement, one of the council's active members.

Some time later the council released what it termed the text of the broadcast from its people.

It was largely a propaganda broadcast to the "people of Cuba" and told them the "Liberation Army of Cuba (is) on war footing in national territory."

It also spoke of having received "the message of the commandos of the Cuban Revolutionary Council."

The Associated Press listening post in Key West, Fla., also monitored this broadcast and said it apparently came from the same "Army of Liberation" which has been heard in similar broadcasts dating back to Feb. 17.

Told of this, Manuel de Varona, leader of the council, said he was mistaken when he took the later broadcast as being from his commandos. The council radio monitors apparently did not hear the earlier broadcast.

An indication that the "Army of Liberation" actually is operating inside Cuba came April 16, when the government announced that it had wiped out a group calling itself the "north detachment of the Army of Liberation."

Macmillan Orders Inquiry In Profumo Security Case

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan ordered a judicial inquiry into the Profumo security scandal amid opposition Laborite charges of a possible cover-up.

Macmillan told the House of Commons on Friday an investigation is necessary because he has heard "terrible things said of all sorts of people which if allowed to go on will destroy not only one side of the House of Commons but the other side as well."

"The other side," the Labor party opposition, objected to the method. Insisting that a select committee of the House itself should do the job of finding out if national security is full of holes.

"This procedure is totally inadequate," Harold Wilson, the opposition leader, told Macmillan. "You are running away from the idea of setting up anything which will establish the truth."

Chooses Senior Jurist

Macmillan stilled some of the outcry by his choice of Lord Denning, 64, senior jurist who is known to favor open rather than secret testimony. He also is an avowed believer in the press, declaring in a speech last month: "The press are the watchdogs of justice."

Lord Denning will decide which testimony is to be open when he convenes the inquiry into former War Minister John A. Profumo's love affair with Christine Keeler, who was at the same time intimate with Soviet naval attaché Eugene Ivanov.

Lord Denning also will have a duty to determine if the security services were lax in dealing with the dangerous situation of sex and security risks in politics. Macmillan has indicated they were by telling the House he had not been fully informed of what was going on.

Wilson expressed doubt on a hand-chosen investigative body as a guarantee that the case would be pressed to a "full disclosure."

Others Involved

Wilson said rumors circulating and being printed abroad are that more prominent Britons are involved.

Macmillan defended his solution. He said some of the "terrible things" being said about men in public life were of such a nature that "I do not think they can be brought out."

In unqualified open hearings, the prime minister said, there would be smirches which would remain even after the persons involved had been acquitted.

Conservatives and Labor split in partisan reaction to the prime minister's move.

Conclave Names New Pontiff; Takes Title Of Pope Paul VI

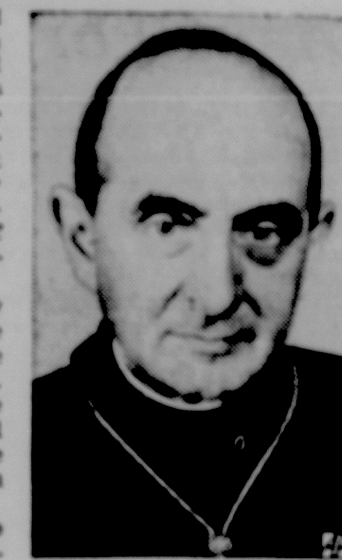

The Dramatic Moment

As millions all over the world awaited the news of the election of Pope Paul VI, the watchful tenseness outside of St. Peter's basilica grew to a fever of anticipation. The dramatic moment when the announcement of the selection of the new pontiff was made from the balcony is caught in the color of this excerpt from The Associated Press story:

It was the first day of a new summer and the first day of the reign of a new pontiff. Eyes were trained upon the balcony of St. Peter's Basilica. The doors were thrown open, and Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani, pro-dean of the College of Cardinals, announced in Latin that "We have a Pope."

A thunderous roar swelled up from the crowd. Suddenly, an expectant hush fell over the square. The cardinal's voice came again over the loud speakers: "He is my Most Eminent Lord, the Lord Cardinal Giovanni Battista."

The crowd was ahead of him. "Montini!" thousands shouted. Cardinal Ottaviani raised his hands, as if begging for silence. The crowd hushed again. He pronounced the name Montini, but his voice seemed to crack with emotion and he had to repeat it. "He has chosen to reign under the name of Paul VI."

"Paulo!" the crowd roared. "Viva il Papa Paolo!"

The papal banner of John XXIII was unfurled slowly from the balcony, the last official appearance of the crest of lower and lion at a public ceremony.

Tense minutes went by. Then Pope Paul VI appeared on the balcony. He had been pontiff for just one hour. He stepped onto a wooden stand, his hands folded in front of him, as though in prayer, while the crowd shouted in exaltation.

Cad in papal robes of a white, with white stole, a gold-embroidered papal stole over his shoulders, he was a figure of imposing dignity. For just an instant, the voice of the new Pope shook with emotion, but then it became firm and strong.

Paul VI chanted the ritual of the blessing, "Urbi et orbi"—To the City of Rome and the world. He raised his right hand slowly, and making the sign of the cross, said in a clear voice: "We bless thee in the name of the Father, and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost."

A rolling thunder of "amen" came up from the crowd. To the echo of a continuous roar, the new Pope, after five minutes, disappeared through the balcony and repaired to his cell for meditation.

European Reaction Joyful

LONDON (AP) — Europe welcomed the election of Pope Paul VI Friday as a worthy successor to the Vatican throne. Praise was almost universally joined with expressions of hope that he will follow the reformist policies of Pope John XXIII.

Unusually speedy notice was taken by Moscow Radio, which told Russian listeners: "The new Pope has declared he intends to adhere to the policy pursued by his predecessor."

Commentators, common people and ranking prelates across Western Europe found themselves making this same comparison and in general it was favorable.

There was one possible exception—Spain. Generalissimo Francisco Franco, head of a state where Roman Catholicism is the established religion, sent a message of congratulation to Paul VI.

"expressing to Your Holiness my filial wishes."

But the new pontiff was not regarded as a popular choice by many in Spain's governing class. As a cardinal, he sent Franco a message last October appealing for clemency for a Barcelona terrorist reported to have been sentenced to death.

A government spokesman denied the man was facing execution, and the Spanish leadership was reported annoyed by the cardinal's intervention.

Most Spaniards, and their neighbors in Portugal, greeted the news of the new Pope with rejoicing.

In the streets of Paris, the reaction was also favorable. A woman shopkeeper smiled and said: "That is a very good choice. I understand Cardinal Montini intends to follow up the work of Pope John, and that is a work of peace."

President Charles de Gaulle sent a message to the new Pope saying, "With all the people of France I extend the most deferent and the most fervent wishes for the grandeur of your reign."

West Germany's two major political parties issued statements welcoming the choice. The ruling Christian Democrats called it a good one. The Social Democrats expressed hope that "Pope Paul VI's rule may contribute toward giving the world peace."

The Protestant leadership of Britain quickly sent congratulations, led by Queen Elizabeth II and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Dr. Michael Ramsey, archbishop of Canterbury and Anglican primate of England, sent a message of greeting "on your election as successor to Pope John."

Shortly after Pope Paul's election, the President sent him a message on behalf of the United States wishing him "long years of leadership in the cause of peace and good will so nobly advanced by your great predecessor."

Bipartisan Effort To Back Civil Rights Package Fails

WASHINGTON (AP) — Efforts to sign up a bipartisan Senate majority in support of President Kennedy's civil rights package bogged down Friday in Republican wariness toward his plan to bar segregation in private businesses.

But Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York, a GOP leader in the drive for cosponsors, predicted a majority would come around. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, assistant Senate Democratic leader, said he too is confident the goal will be reached by the Monday afternoon target.

The last announced count was 43 of the 100 senators as cosponsors, but they included only nine Republicans of 33 in the Senate. There are 67 Democrats in the Senate.

Javits told a news conference he is convinced a majority of the 33 Republicans would support

Kennedy's plan "substantially as it stands" if the Senate can block any filibuster by Southern opponents. He said some members are reluctant to sponsor bills even though they vote for them.

Stiff Opposition

The stiffest opposition among Republicans to Kennedy's proposal for desegregating privately owned stores, hotels, motels and other businesses serving the public has come from Senate Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

Javits said he regards as "an important development" statements by Goldwater, who is considered a front-runner for the 1964 GOP presidential nomination, that he would back some of Kennedy's proposals.

This is significant for the Republican party, Javits said, because it indicates that Goldwater "has apparently abandoned his often-stated position against new civil rights legislation."

Goldwater has said he would support any legislation he feels would contribute to ending racial disturbances. He has noted that he never voted to limit Senate debate, but has not said he never would do so.

Javits predicted that Republicans would provide a minimum of 22 of the 67 votes needed, if all members take a stand, to curb debate and kill off the expected Southern filibuster.

Asked if he would accept modification of the highly controversial public accommodations proposal, Javits said he would go along with some cut-off provision which would exempt small, individually owned businesses.

Question: Will Steel Seek Price Raises?

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Settlement of the steel labor contract has spurred speculation on whether the industry, already complaining of a profit squeeze, will attempt to increase prices.

Although no wage increase was included in the unprecedented agreement announced Thursday, industry officials estimated the new fringe benefits would raise employment costs about 15 cents an hour per man over the 21-month duration of the pact.

In addition, there could be a sizable cutback on orders by steel users who had built inventories as a hedge against a possible strike.

A combination of high employment costs and low production would be likely to evoke another clamor by management for a price hike.

However, it is unlikely the industry would move for a general price increase similar to the one which caused such a furor after last year's contract settlement.

Presidential pressure forced a rescinding of that increase. And President Kennedy has repeatedly stated his adamant opposition to any across-the-board hikes—which he fears would trigger inflation.

But it is problematical whether the President would protest another selective price increase like the one ordered by many major steel firms last April.

That April hike of about $150 to $170 a ton, although on such selective items as plates, sheets, strips and galvanized products, was the first major increase in the industry since August 1958.

Kennedy's attitude in April was that the increase could be absorbed by steel users without hurting the economy.

Both industry and labor representatives told a joint Senate-House Economics Committee recently that the selective increases had no appreciable effect on the general level of prices in the nation.

Milan Cardinal Is 262nd Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The College of Cardinals on Friday elected Giovanni Battista Cardinal Montini the 262nd Pope of the Roman Catholic Church, placing its future policy in the hands of a dynamic progressive. He will be crowned a week from Sunday.

The new supreme pontiff of the world's half-billion Catholics took the name Paul VI. That clearly emphasized his dedication to the principles of world peace and Christian unity.

The deep-voiced compunctive master host of St. Peter's, led the bells of the hundreds of churches in Rome in carols of triumph, while more than 100,000 persons in vast St. Peter's Square roared out their delight.

The election of 65-year-old Cardinal Montini by a secret conclave of 80 cardinals, seemed to insure continuation of the precedent-making policies of John XXIII, who died 18 days ago.

Skilled Diplomat

The new Pope, who had been archbishop of Milan for eight years, is a skilled diplomat who served Pope Pius XII as pro-secretary of state. He also worked closely with the successor to Pius during the four years, seven months of Pope John's reign. He supported Pope John's efforts to bring Christians together and reach new arrangements for the faithful in Communist-ruled countries.

On Sunday, June 30, Pope Paul will receive the glittering three-tiered tiara encrusted with gems and topped by the golden orb and cross.

The coronation ceremony will come one day after the feast day of St. Peter and St. Paul.

Vatican officials, announcing the date, said that June 30 is a day most particularly connected with the memory of St. Paul.

President Kennedy is expected to arrive in Italy on June 30 on his European tour. The first Catholic chief executive of the United States is expected to meet the new Pope on July 2. The two often have expressed similar views.

Shortly after Pope Paul's election, the President sent him a message on behalf of the United States wishing him "long years of leadership in the cause of peace and good will so nobly advanced by your great predecessor."

Favored Candidate

The new Pope, a vigorous yet tranquil man with blue eyes and iron-gray hair, was the acknowledged favorite when the 80 cardinals locked themselves into the conclave area Wednesday. Thus, he proved an exception to the Vatican adage that "He who enters the conclave as Pope comes out as cardinal," meaning that favorites seldom are chosen.

The new Pope quickly made his first appointment, and it seems to be significant of his intentions. He named Amleto Cardinal Cicognani as his secretary of state, the next most important Vatican post. Cardinal Cicognani had served Pope John in that post and was active in planning last fall's Ecumenical Council, considered the outstanding event of Pope John's reign.

The new pontiff himself scheduled his first broadcast to the world over Vatican radio for Saturday.

A dam of suspense broke for a flood of jubilation after thick white smoke spindled from a little chimney atop the Sistine Chapel, the signal that a new Pope had been selected.

Crowds Swarmed

Crowds swarmed down the broad Via Della Conciliazione into St. Peter's Square, and soon the square was choked with more than 100,000 happy people. None in nearby streets hitched their skirts to avoid level and ran pell-mell toward the square. School girls recited the Rosary. Vendors squirmed through the crowd, quickly selling out their stocks of straw hats to protect the spectators from the sun.

Cardinal Montini's election was accomplished either on the fifth or sixth ballot of his fellow members in the college. Only the cardinals know which. The conclave opened Wednesday. The priors of the Church voted four times Thursday, twice in the forenoon and twice in the afternoon, without reaching the necessary two-thirds majority—or 54 votes—for any one candidate.

Once again, as it has been for more than four centuries, the choice was an Italian.

Roman Catholics regard their Pope as the vicar of Christ on earth, a direct successor to St. Peter, the supreme legislator, teacher, judge and administrator of the faith and indissoluble in matters of faith and morals.

The new Pope was born Sept. 26, 1897, one of three brothers, at Concesio, near the northern Italian city of Brescia. He was ordained to the priesthood at Brescia in 1920 and entered the Vatican diplomatic service soon after.

Father A Journalist

Unlike John XXIII, who came of poor peasants, Paul VI grew up in an atmosphere of a comfortable, cultured home. His father was a distinguished journalist.

In 1952, Montini was made pro-secretary of state for the Vatican by Pius XII. At the January 1953 conclave, Pius XII announced he had wanted to make Montini a cardinal, but his pro-secretary of state declined the honor, preferring to continue serving in his post. A year later the Pope sent him to Milan as archbishop. Pope John made him a cardinal in December 1958.

Upon his election, the new pontiff chose the name of Paul evidently with a definite purpose in mind: To symbolize his devotion to the goals of Christian brotherhood and world peace.

The Apostle Paul was the one who did much to spread Christianity in the ancient world, and his name is venerated by all Christian faiths.

There was every expectation now that the Ecumenical Council would be reconvened and continue its work toward a path to Scripture—Psalm 19: 66; 148.

The greatness of God is apparent in the universe He created. In the heavens "He has set a tent for the sun, which runs its course with joy."—Psalm 19:1-4.

It is also apparent in God's revelation of Himself and His law in the Scriptures. His law is perfect, sure, right, pure, clean and true for ever.—Psalm 19:7-11.

It is apparent, too, in our own experience. God is our "Rock" and our "Redeemer." "For He is our God, and we are the people of His pasture."—Psalm 19:14; Psalm 95:7.

This greatness of God should lead us to worship Him constantly. "Oh come, let us sing to the Lord; let us make a joyful noise..."—Psalm 95:1. GOLDEN TEXT: Psalm 19:1.

Religion Today

Supreme Court Decision

Religion in the United States, to a greater degree than ever, is on its own.

The government has pulled back another step from the field.

That is the basic effect of the U.S. Supreme Court decision prohibiting laws requiring the recitation of the Lord's Prayer and Bible-reading exercises in the public schools.

Whether the ruling will help or harm religion is a matter of differing opinion among its leaders, but whatever the influence, the state is blocked from a role it has long played in religion.

The task is left more completely up to the religious institutions themselves. As the Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, president of the Lutheran Church in America, observed:

"It heightens the need of the church for strength to stand alone, lofty and unshaken, in American society."

To an extent, the court action marks a new situation for the country's religious forces.

It has resulted from a more sharply defined pattern of church-state relationships, brought on by questions arising in a nation once Protestant-oriented, but now a diverse blend of Protestants, Catholics, Jews and nonbelievers.

"The pluralistic society" is the going term for it.

Out of its stresses has emerged a recent stream of lawsuits involving church-state relations. Not in the first 136 years of the country's history was there a clear-cut Supreme Court case on the issue.

But in the last 25 years, there has been a rising flood of them, with more to come.

Dr. C. Emanuel Carlson of Washington, D.C., executive director of the Baptist Joint Committee on Public Affairs, says historians may well call the present period "the age of religious lawsuits."

"The modern wave of litigation which began in the late 1930s seems to be gaining momentum rather than reaching a conclusion."

Repeatedly, in cases dealing with state involvement with religion, the high court has decreed: "Thou shalt not."

In doing so this week in prescribed Bible-reading and the Lord's Prayer in the classroom, the court acted against a practice that has been common throughout the nation's history.

In the first half century of the United States, schools were mostly church-run. But after the development of public schools beginning in the mid-1800s, religious devotionals remained a standard custom.

Surveys show the practice has continued to the present in about half the country's public schools, a larger portion in the South and East.

But now, the barrier is up. This week's decision declares that "the place of religion in our society is an exalted one," and "it is not within the power of the government to invade that citadel."

The responsibility, the court maintained, is elsewhere.

Church President Asks For Support

NEW YORK CITY—The President of the United Church of Christ asked for support of a "courageous program of action" for racial justice in a personal letter sent today to ministers and members of the denomination's 6000 churches.

The Rev. Dr. Ben Mohr Herbert, of New York City, said he and other delegates to the church's biennial General Synod covering in Denver, Colorado, July 4 will ask the representative body to adopt a plan of worldwide action for racial freedom.

He urged the more than two million church members and ministers to let their delegates to the General Synod know what they think the plan should include. He also asked them to write to him personally "expressing your concern."

Dr. Herbert said he hoped that the Synod would first call on the United Church of Christ "to put its own house in order . . . to eliminate every vestige of segregation, discrimination, injustice and intolerance."

"No Christian may stand aloof from this situation," he wrote. "Each of us is obligated to act personally and through his church to end discrimination."

The United Church of Christ is a union of Evangelical and Reformed churches and Congregational Christian churches.

Today's Lesson:

God In His World

THE TITLE of this week's lesson is slightly misleading in that it does not indicate sufficiently the central theme around which it is built—the praise of God.

The three psalms chosen form a crescendo of development of this theme. The first (Psalm 19) is a revelation of God's character, both in Word and in deed (the universe He has created). The second (Psalm 95) indicates God's loving concern for man, and the praise must owe Him as a result of this and God's great character in general. The last (Psalm 148) expands this concept of praising God to include the whole universe, from all the hosts of heaven to more especially—the chosen children of Israel.

These three psalms also represent a chronological build-up of the whole book of Psalms. The first is chosen from the early part of the book and was written by David. The second was written later, coming in the fourth section of the Psalter. The last comes from the very last page of the Book.

The 13th Psalm is a great one, which we have discussed often before. Within it we find another, smaller crescendo of growth, also in three parts. The first six verses reveal God in nature; verses 7-11 reveal Him in scripture; verses 12-14 reveal Him in individual experience. These constitute the three aspects of religion—natural, revealed and practical, respectively. While such a progression is a crescendo in powers and meaning for man, it also represents a diminishing from the vastness of the whole universe, through man's history, to the individual man's soul.

More specifically, the word "firmament" in the first verse of this psalm refers to the vault of heaven as described in the early description of the creation (see Genesis 1).

The substructure of verses 7-9 is also worth study. In each line is found an aspect of the Lord (law, testimony, precepts, commandment, fear, ordinances), a corresponding adjective describing it (perfect, sure, right, pure, clean, true), and an effect of this aspect (enlightens, makes wise, rejoices, endures, is vindicated).

Veres 10 and 11 enumerate four benefits of following God's law or Word—it gives man a sense of possession, abiding pleasure, sure protection and great profit.

Psalm 95 sets forth two great reasons for worshipping and praising God. He is supreme over all other gods, and He is creator of our whole universe. It is in two parts, the first (verses 1-7) inviting worship and the second (verses 8-11) warning against the lack of it.

Verse 5 mentions the sea—a Biblical symbol for the instability and restlessness of human life.

Psalm 148 is one great anthem. Like Psalm 19, it also progresses from the general (all the hosts of the universe) to the specific (the people of Israel).

SHOCK TREATMENT—We had a neighbor farmer by the name of Mac Tavish who was so selfish and stingy that it was rumored that he hung his used tea bags out on the line at night to dry.

He had a nice cabbage patch and he covered every head that grew. He took it as a personal insult if a rabbit dared to hop across his land. The small patch of land became an obsession with him and the more the plants grew the more he missed church, preferring to sit and watch his cabbage patch lest any creature, man or beast, should steal his crop.

His good wife admonished him for such unchristian conduct and often repeated the dire threat, "Sure and the Lord will take away all your fine cabbages some night to teach you a lesson!"

After that, he would sit up nights with his shotgun across his knee and watch over his garden until 1 or 2 a.m. (This was in Scotland, in the northern part, and the midnight sun illuminated the landscape until about 3 a.m.)

Now, his wife's warnings reached the ears of some of the young lads of the village and they determined that they would help the Lord dispense justice in this case.

After much planning, they perfected a way to make Mrs. Mac Tavish's prediction come true and at the same time reform the character of the "old skinflint."

One night, in the twilight of the midnight sun, Mac Tavish sat gloating over his fine cabbage crop, now ripe for harvest.

A deep voice roared out of the darkness side of the garden "Mac Tavish, watch your fine crop disappear right before your eyes!"

Sure enough, a big head of cabbage tore loose from the ground and went sailing away into the dark sky! Then another and another until it seemed that the whole patch was jumping right out of the ground as Mac Tavish stood helpless, shaking with fright.

When he could stand no more of the awful sight, Mac sank to his knees and prayed in a loud voice, "Lord, I am sorry for missing kirk (church) so often in my greed and I am truly repentant for my selfishness in not giving any to the poor of the village. Oh, cease this awful punishment and I will surely be a changed man from now on. Not only will I be constant attending kirk, but I will attend prayer meetings too!"

Well he did change and was a better man ever after. The lads of the village had crept up with fish poles and cast into the cabbage patch until each one had hooked into a head, then after the "voice of doom" they pulled and half of the crop went flying out of the garden in what appeared as a judgment to poor Mac Tavish.

The shock of this joke brought him to his senses and he gave up his selfish ways and placed service to God first in his life, instead of material things.

Lutheran Leaders Comment On Supreme Court Ruling

NEW YORK—The presidents of the three major branches of American Lutheranism issued statements on the U.S. Supreme Court's ruling that Bible reading and recitation of the Lord's Prayer in public schools are unconstitutional.

Expressing their views of the high tribunal's 8 to 1 decision on the issue were Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, N.Y., of the 3,200,000-member Lutheran Church in America; Dr. Fredrik A. Schiotz, Minneapolis, of the 2,300,000-member American Lutheran Church; and Dr. Oliver R. Harms, St. Louis, of the 2,600,000-member Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod.

Dr. Fry said that he does not believe "much has been lost in terms of the specific points covered by this decision" but added that it "intensifies the task of the church."

He said that "if the court had permitted the Lord's Prayer to be recited in school rooms only for the sake of the moral and ethical atmosphere it creates, it would have been worth nothing to me as a Christian."

"The Lord's Prayer is the supreme act of adoration and petition or it is debased," Dr. Fry said. "Reading the Bible without comment, too, has been of dubious value as either an educational or religious experience."

The LCA leader observed that "the more we attempt as Christians or Americans to insist on common denominator religious exercises or instruction in the public schools, the greater risk we run of diluting our faith and contributing to a vague religiosity which identifies religion with patriotism and becomes a national folk religion."

"At the same time, in candor, this decision must be seen as a watershed," he said. "It opens an era in which Christianity is kept separate from the state in a way that was foreign and would have been repugnant to the minds of our ancestors at the time when the constitution was written and ever since. It signals the fact that the United States of America, like many other nations, is past the place where underlying Christian culture and beliefs are assumed in its life."

Adding that "this event intensifies the task of the church," he said it "heightens society's" and "calls for greater depth of conviction in all Christian men and women."

Dr. Schiotz declared that the Supreme Court's decision "points up a situation that has long existed through tolerance rather than constitutional right" and that the decision "may actually be a plus for the Christian church."

"It will alert its people to the certainty that community agencies carry no responsibility for Christian nurture," he said. "This privilege belongs to the family and the church. Clear recognition of this fact may provide a new sense of 'oughtness' in the church's assumption of this privilege and obligation."

The court's decision, in the opinion of the ALC official, may become the occasion for new questions, such as "If schools are not to be allowed religious use of the Bible and prayer in instructing the children, is it permissible for a government body to practice the same religion?"

"Congressional opening prayers and the invocation of the grace of God in the opening of the Supreme Court will no doubt receive a new scrutiny," he noted, adding that the support of chaplains in the armed forces "would come in a different category."

Dr. Schiotz said also that the average Christian "may misunderstand the ruling of the Supreme Court and interpret it as antipathy toward religion," a possibility he said is "enhanced by the fact that the court's opinion was occasioned by a case brought by Mrs. Madalyn Murray of Baltimore, Md., an acknowledged atheist."

"It is therefore, increasingly important that Christians use every legitimate opportunity to make it evident that 'we are a religious people,' as was stated by the Supreme Court in a decision handed down in 1962," he concluded. "What an opportunity for Christians elected to office or in the service of the government to underscore this statement by their speech, action and participation in worship services!"

Dr. Harms pointed out that the Missouri Synod "has always supported the constitution of the United States, and especially favors the First Amendment which prohibits the establishment of any religion, but encourages the free exercise of all."

The Supreme Court's decision, he stressed, "makes it all the more incumbent on all Christians to utilize the channels which the home, the church and its educational agencies offer for the study of God's Word."

"We would especially encourage Christian parents to be diligent and faithful in conducting family devotions," Dr. Harms said.

"We encourage all Christian congregations to reach out into the community and down into their own congregations with the Gospel of Jesus Christ so that the moral and spiritual fiber of our nation can be strengthened. Such a return to the Bible will provide the only true basis for Christian faith and life."

The LCA, ALC and Missouri Synod represent more than 96 per cent of the nearly eight and a half million Lutherans in the United States.

Circus Has Troubles Before Stroud Twp. Performances

STROUDSBURG — The Christiani-Wallace Bros. Circus put on its regular performances here in the best tradition of show business yesterday, but it wasn't easy. First, the show was short one animal, Miss Patricia Wyatt, 30, of Crestwood, Fla., who fell 30 feet to the ground Thursday night at Hazleton while performing on an aerial ladder during a benefit performance.

She was reported in fair condition yesterday at Hazleton Hospital where she was being treated for a fractured hip, black eye and face cuts.

Miss Wyatt was performing alone above the main ring when the bottom rung of the ladder on which she was working apparently gave way. Her fall was witnessed by about 300 spectators.

Louis DeJaca, an auxiliary policeman and one of the first persons to reach her side, said she was conscious during the few minutes before an ambulance arrived and kept asking, "What happened? What happened?"

In addition to Miss Wyatt's absence, the circus' one tent was delivered to the wrong field and the afternoon performance was delayed approximately two hours.

The circus performed here for the benefit of the Stroudsburg Kiwanis Club.

BANGOR — Fire in an apartment building at S. Main and Market Sts. routed four families about 5:30 a.m. yesterday. No one was injured.

Approximately 30 men from

Rescue, Second Ward and Liberty Fire Cos. confined serious damage to one apartment. A men's clothing store on the ground floor suffered water and smoke damage.

Fire Chief Ben Albert said the blaze started in a mattress in the apartment of John and Edgar Fritz on the second floor. The apartment and its contents were completely destroyed.

Minor fire damage was reported in the apartment of Mrs. Arlene Gerhart and her four young children and smoke damage was light in the apartments of Mrs. Marjorie Parry and Mrs. Helen Hicks. Two other apartments in the building are vacant.

Wyckoff's secured the property from Earl D. and Sadie Y. Dennis. He is the operator of the meat market adjacent to the dwelling.

Jack Kertin, vice president of the firm, said plans call for destruction of the building within the next month or two to provide truck unloading facilities which will not interfere with customers' traffic.

Fake Phone Callers Warned

EAST STROUDSBURG — Pranssters telephoning false orders to an East Stroudsburg bakery were warned yesterday they will be prosecuted if they continue the practice.

Billy Nelson, proprietor of the Rabigh Bakery at 113 E. Broad St., said he is prepared to prosecute if the calls do not stop.

Nelson said he has received two false orders within the past two days and will sign a letter of intent to prosecute, required by the Bell Telephone Co. before it can take action, if the calls continue.

Nelson said the calls were received by him as 47-year-old mother, Mrs. Elva Nelson.

No Estimate

No immediate estimate of damage was available for Pritchard's Clothing Store, operated by Glenn Grigg and Wilbert Greer, said Greer said, "It looks like plenty to me."

John Turtas, a member of the firm of Turtas Associates, Inc., which owns the building, said he had no estimate of damage, but that the building is covered by insurance.

Summer Dilemma

With the increase of traffic that marks the summer season, the Borough of Stroudsburg again faces the summer dilemma of taking twenty minutes to traverse the three blocks of Main St.

The situation has been building up over the past few weekends, and by the time that most of our summer residents are here it will grow to ever more aggravating proportions.

The wise resident has given up the idea of using Main St., and heads for the back streets. It's much faster and safer.

The bottleneck, of course, is caused mainly by the diagonal parking on both sides of the street.

With the present setup, traffic crawls for two reasons: Whenever a car backs out of a parking spot to get into traffic, it blocks the whole line of through traffic. Then there's the hopeful motorist who watches eagle-eyed for someone to pull out, so that there's an empty spot for him to use. As a result, he travels at snail's pace.

Stroudsburg residents and visitors alike were delighted when the Route 80 bypass was opened, taking heavy through traffic off Main St. It gave promise of making shopping in downtown Stroudsburg a pleasure.

The pleasure was short-lived, however. Immediately the borough fathers decided to introduce diagonal parking on both sides of the street to bring a few more nickels in parking meter fees into the coffers. It made the main street a two-lane, congested bottleneck again.

We contend that the extra revenue gained does not offset the irritation of public relations that the congestion causes. Some years back, Stroudsburg was a bottleneck that the ordinary motorist shunned. It hurt business. It irritated travelers and residents alike.

Happy was the day that the situation was alleviated.

But, now, we are right back where we started. It is an ordeal to traverse the main street of our borough in a car.

Let's get rid of diagonal parking on at least one side of Main St.!

Birmingham Complaint

A forceful and clear statement of the feelings of Negroes who are leading the present civil rights revolution is published in the current issue of a liberal magazine published in East Stroudsburg.

"Letter from Birmingham City Jail" by Martin Luther King Jr. in the bi-weekly New Leader is a calm and forceful criticism of the role of white moderates and the white Church in eliminating segregation in America.

Writing as he sat in Birmingham, Alabama, Jail after arrest for a march demonstration, King said:

"... over the last few years I have been gravely disappointed with the white moderate... who is more devoted to order than to justice; who prefers a negative peace which is the absence of tension to a positive peace which is the presence of justice..."

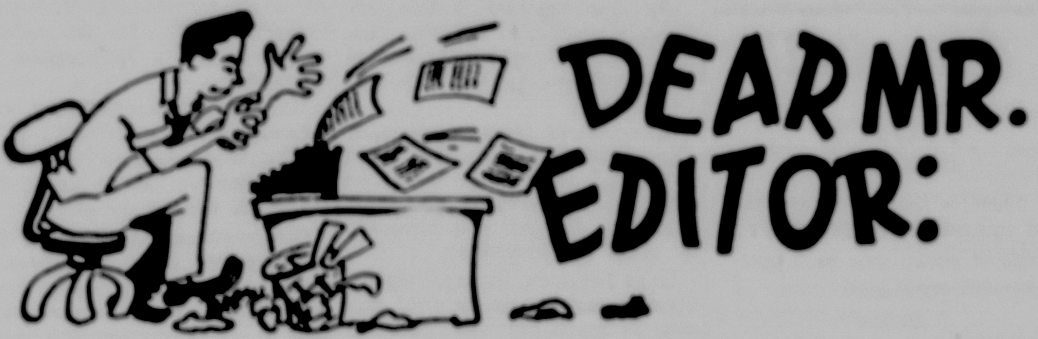

At another point he says:

"Shallow understanding from people of good will is more frustrating than absolute misunderstanding from people of ill will. Lukewarm acceptance is much more bewildering than outright rejection."

And King wrote:

"I have been so greatly disappointed with the white Church and its leadership... so here we are moving toward the exit of the 20th century with a religious community largely adjusted to the status quo, standing as a tail light behind other community agencies rather than a headlight leading men to higher levels of justice."

These words recall those of President Kennedy in his address to the nation June 11 on discrimination and the race revolution. Kennedy said, "I hope that every American regardless of where he lives will stop and examine his conscience."

Support for Krebiozen Test Asked

Editor, The Daily Record:

The deadline for the distribution of Krebiozen, the non-toxic cancer drug, has been extended. However, Krebiozen is still classified as an investigational drug. The National Cancer Institute is in the process of evaluating its findings to see if a test of Krebiozen is justified.

Krebiozen has been used for more than 12 years on over 4,000 patients by 3,000 doctors. There are proven case histories of patients alive and well who were once considered terminal cancer cases.

Dr. Ivy and Durovic, sponsors of the drug, have complied with all the government regulations to the best of their ability. Still there is a question whether Krebiozen should receive a fair scientific test and be licensed.

Krebiozen has no value in the management of the cancer patient, why are the authorities afraid to test it?

According to Senator Paul Douglas, an advocate of a fair test for Krebiozen, a dispute arose over the distribution of Krebiozen when it was first introduced. Krebiozen was put on the black-list of the American Medical Association by means of falsified articles in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Some of the patients termed dying or dead in 1961-1962 are now alive and cancer free by new tests. Mr. Herbert Bailey has made these statements in his book, "A Matter of Life and Death". His statements have never been challenged in court.

The budget for the National Institute of Health is approaching one billion dollars ($980,454,000) is the budget request for the coming fiscal year.

These taxpayer dollars among other things, pay for research on "A Stereotactic Atlas of the Brain"; "Red Tuna and Yellow Fat Disease in the Cat"; "Functions of Play in Developing Adulthood"; "Investigation of Information contained in Echoes".

It would seem they could afford to test Krebiozen which has saved the lives of cancer patients and relieved pain and suffering. Still the National Cancer Institute proudly boasts that 50,000 cancer drugs are tested annually to find a cancer cure.

I read recently in a government-released pamphlet of one cancer drug for which the National Institute of Health paid $715,000 to a "contractor" to buy enough of his drug to test it. Incidentally Dr. Ivy has given Krebiozen to be tested.

I wonder if this drug for which $715,000 was paid to test, as well as the 50,000 drugs which are tested annually, have been subjected to twelve years of waiting to be tested.

Krebiozen has not been discovered or promoted at taxpayers' expense. We simply ask that it be given a fair, scientific test. If it proves of value in the treatment of cancer, we ask that it be licensed.

If you feel that the issue should be decided in this way, please write today to your Senators and Congressmen. Also let the Food and Drug Administration know that you want Krebiozen tested. Let's make Krebiozen freely available to all who need and want it.

Stokes Mill Swimming Hole Closing

Editor, The Daily Record:

We would like to state our opinions on the controversial subject of the closing of the old swimming hole, Stokes.

We would like to know why all of a sudden they decided to ban Stokes from the public. Why didn't they do this twenty years ago? If we recall correctly, a few years ago there even were diving boards erected there, but unfortunately the flood washed them away.

Instead of closing it off entirely, why don't they just post Swim At Your Own Risk notices? Wouldn't that signify that if you got hurt it would be your own fault?

We have been swimming at Stokes for a good number of years and know that there are old beer and soda bottles laying around, along with papers. But, why not clean up the area, make a larger beach, and then possibly there wouldn't be as many accidents.

It stated in the newspaper that the restricted area is from the bridge to the old dam. As it now stands, we have to swim on the opposite side of the bridge.

There the watter is so shallow in the majority of the area that it isn't decent or good swimming. In the very small place that is deep, only about six people can swim at a time, and then it is crowded.

As for swimming pools, who likes them? Which is healthier, swimming in a limited area with hundreds of other people, or swimming in a clean, large free-flowing creek?

After swimming in the creek for so many years, we couldn't get used to going to a crowded pool. Besides, swimming at a pool every day costs money, and we teen-agers don't make a mint with our part-time or summer jobs.

Also, it's a problem finding a way to a pool and back, especially if you live five or six miles from the nearest one.

Sincerely yours,
SANDRA BUMGARDNER

Project 70 Land Grab Opposed

Editor, The Daily Record:

As the discussion of Project 70 and Tock's Island becomes more involved, I think it important to point out the basic changes in both proposals.

Both provide for additional recreational facilities which will be needed because of the population explosion, and can be commended for this.

The dangerous and well-hidden features of both proposals, however, are the ones which permit condemnation and seizure of private property for recreational use.

We can all see the necessity for condemnation of private land for highway construction—imagine how our roads would look if forced to detour around a land that could not be purchased! Recreational facilities need not be restricted to narrow areas.

We Pennsylvanians are very fortunate in having thousands of acres of undeveloped state lands and private lands which can be purchased by the free consent of the owner.

If we permit the passage of legislation allowing the seizure of private lands for recreational use, we will have lost a large part of the freedom our ancestors fought for.

Any petty official can then walk onto your property, decide he likes it, and give you orders to move. This is the real danger of both Project 70 and Tock's Island.

Write to Van Yetter, Senator Bijl Scott, and Governor Scranton and tell them you want no condemnation of land for recreational use; tell U.S. Senator Hugh Scott and Clark that you want the small farmers and home-owners of our beautiful Delaware Valley safe from seizure of their property.

Take this action NOW before it is too late. Evil forces are winning the battle against God in American life; by destroying private property, they will have brought us close to the Super State of 1984.

U.S. Supreme Court Bible, Prayer Decision

The following are extensive excerpts from the majority opinion of Justice Thomas C. Clark in which the Supreme Court ruled Monday that the Pennsylvania law requiring daily reading of 10 verses of the Bible and a Baltimore school Lord's Prayer and Bible recitation were unconstitutional.

Once again we are called upon to consider the scope of the provision of the First Amendment to the United States Constitution which declares that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof. . . . These companion cases present the issues in the context of state action requiring that schools begin each day with readings from the Bible."

In light of the history of the First Amendment and of our cases interpreting and applying its requirements, we hold that the practices at issue and the laws requiring them are unconstitutional under the establishment clause, as applied to the states through the 14th Amendment.

The facts in each case: The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by law requires that "at least ten verses from the Holy Bible shall be read, without comment, at the opening of each public school on each school day. Any child shall be excused from such Bible reading, upon the written request of his parent or guardian."

The Schemp family, husband and wife and two of their three children, brought suit to enjoin enforcement of the statute, contending that their rights under the 14th Amendment to the Constitution of the United States are, have been, and will continue to be violated unless this statute be declared unconstitutional as violative of these provisions of the first amendment.

Unitarian Protest
The appellants, Edward Lewis Schemp, his wife Sidney, and their children, Roger and Donna, are of the Unitarian faith and are members of the Unitarian Church in Germantown, Philadelphia, Pa., where they as well as another son, Ellory, regularly attend religious services.

On each day at the Abington Senior High School between 8:15 and 8:30 a.m., while the pupils are attending their home rooms or advisory sections, opening exercises are conducted pursuant to the statute.

The exercises are broadcast into each room in the school building through an intercommunications system and are conducted under the supervision of a teacher by students attending the school's radio and television workshop.

Selected students from this course gather each morning in the school's workshop studio for the exercises, which include readings by one of the students of 10 verses of the Holy Bible broadcast to each room in the building.

This is followed by the recitation of the Lord's Prayer, likewise over the intercommunications system, but also by the students in the various classrooms, who are asked to stand and join in repeating the prayer in unison. The exercises are closed with the flag salute and such pertinent announcements as are of interest to the students.

Voluntary
Participation in the opening exercises, as directed by the statute, is voluntary. The student reading the verses from the Bible may select the passages and read from any version he chooses, although the only copies, furnished by the school are the King James Version, copies of which were circulated to each teacher by the school district.

During the period in which the exercises have been conducted the King James, the Douay and the revised standard versions of the Bible have been used, as well as the Jewish holy scriptures.

There are no prefatory statements, no questions asked or solicited, no comments or explanations made and no interpretations given at or during the exercises.

The students and parents are advised that the student may absent himself from the classroom or, should he elect to remain, not participate in the exercises.

At the first trial Edward Schemp and the children testified as to specific religious doctrines purveyed by a literal reading of the Bible "which were contrary to the religious beliefs which they held and to their familial teaching."

Edward Schemp testified at the second trial that he had considered having Roger and Donna excused from attendance at the exercises but decided against it for several reasons, including his belief that the children's relationships with their teachers and classmates would be adversely affected.

Offense To Jews
Expert testimony was introduced by both appellants and appellees at the first trial, which testimony was summarized by the trial court as follows:

"Dr. Solomon Grayzel testified that there were marked differences between the Jewish holy scriptures and the Christian Holy Bible, the most obvious of which was the absence of the New Testament in the Jewish holy scriptures."

"Dr. Grayzel testified that portions of the New Testament were offensive to Jewish tradition and that, from the standpoint of Jewish faith, the concept of Jesus Christ as the Son of God was 'practically blasphemous.' He cited instances in the New Testament which, assertedly, were not only sectarian in nature but tended to bring the Jews into ridicule or scorn."

Atheist's Protest
The petitioner, Mrs. Madalyn Murray and her son, William J. Murray III, are both professed atheists.

It was alleged that William was a student in a public school of Baltimore and Mrs. Murray, his mother, was a taxpayer there; that it was the practice under the rule to have a reading on each school morning from the King James Version of the Bible; that at petitioners' insistence the rule was amended to permit children to be excused from the exercise on request of the parent and that William had been excused pursuant thereto; that nevertheless the rule as amended was in violation of the petitioners' rights "to freedom of religion under the First and 14th Amendments" and in violation of "the principle of separation between church and state, contained therein"

The petitioners' atheistic beliefs and stated that the rule, as practiced, violated their rights. "In that it threatens their religious liberty by placing a premium on belief as against non-belief and subjects their freedom of conscience to the rule of the majority; it pronounces belief in God as the source of all moral and spiritual values, equating these values with religious values, and thereby renders sinister, alien and suspect the belief and ideals of . . . petitioners, promoting doubt and question of their morality, good citizenship and good faith."

Religion In America
It is true that religion has been closely identified with our history and government. As we said in Engel v. Vitale, "the history of man is inseparable from the history of religion. And . . . since the beginning of that history many people have devoutly believed that 'more things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of.'"

In Zorach v. Clauson, (1952) we gave specific recognition to the proposition that "we are a religious people whose institutions presuppose a Supreme Being."

The fact that the Founding Fathers believed devoutly that there was a God and that the unalienable rights of man were rooted in Him is clearly evidenced in their writings, from the Mayflower Compact to the Constitution itself.

This background is evidenced today in our public life through the continuance in our oaths of office from the Presidency to the alderman of the final supplication, "so help me God."

Likewise each house of the Congress provides through its chaplain an opening prayer, and the sessions of this court are declared open by the chief justice in a short ceremony, the final phrase of which invokes the grace of God.

Again, there are such manifes-tations, where those of our citizens who are under the restrictions of military service wish to engage in voluntary worship.

Indeed, only last year an official survey of the country indicated that 64 per cent of our people have church membership, while less than 3 per cent profess no religion whatever.

It can be truly said, therefore, that today, as in the beginning, our national life reflects a religious people who, in the words of Madison, are "earnestly praying . . . in duty bound, that the Supreme Lawgiver of the universe guide them to the universal justice which may be worthy of His . . . blessing"

Religious Freedom
This is not to say, however, that religion has been so identified with our history and government that religious freedom is not likewise as strongly imbedded in our public and private life.

Nothing but the most telling of personal experiences in religious persecution suffered by our forebears could have planted our belief in liberty of religious opinion any more deeply in our heritage.

It is true that this liberty frequently was not realized by the colonists, but this is readily accountable to their close ties to the mother country.

However, the views of Madison and Jefferson, preceded by Roger Williams, came to be incorporated not only in the Federal Constitution but likewise in those of most of our states.

This freedom to worship was indispensable in a country whose people came from the four quarters of the earth and brought with them diversity of religious opinion.

Today authorities list 83 separate religious bodies, each with memberships exceeding 50,000, existing among our people, as well as innumerable smaller groups.

Government Neutral
Almost a hundred years ago in Minor v. Board of Education of Cincinnati, Judge Albion Taft, father of the revered Chief Justice, in an unpublished opinion stated the ideal of our people as to religious freedom as one of "absolute equality before the law of all religious opinions and sects"

"The Government is neutral, and while protecting all, it prefers none, and it disdains none."

This Court has rejected unequivocally the contention that the establishment clause forbids only governmental preference of one religion over another. Almost 30 years ago in Everson, the Court said that neither a state nor the Federal government can set up a church.

Neither can they pass laws which aid one religion, aid all religions, or prefer one religion over another," and Mr. Justice Jackson, dissenting, agreed: "There is no answer to the proposition . . . that the effect of the religious freedom amendment to our Constitution was to take every form of propagation of religion out of the realm of things which could directly or indirectly be made public business and thereby be supported in whole or in part at taxpayers' expense"

This freedom was first in the Bill of Rights because it was first in the forefathers' minds; it was set forth in absolute terms, and its strength is its rigidity."

Further, Mr. Justice Rutledge, joined by Justices Frankfurter, Jackson and Burton, declared: "The (First) Amendment's purpose was not to strike merely at the official establishment of a single sect, creed or religion, outlawing only a formal relation such as had prevailed in England and some of the colonies. Necessarily it was to uproot all such relationships."

But the object was broader than separating church and state in this narrow sense. It was to create a complete and permanent separation of the spheres of religious activity and civil authority by comprehensively forbidding every form of public aid or support for religion."

Further, it is no defense to urge that the religious practices here may be relatively minor encroachments on the First Amendment. The breach of neutrality that is today a trickling stream may all too soon become a raging torrent and, in the words of Madison, "it is proper to take alarm at the first invasion on our liberties."

Bible Study
In addition, it might well be said that one's education is not complete without a study of comparative religion or the history of religion and its relationship to the advancement of civilization. It certainly may be said that the Bible is worthy of study for its literary and historic qualities.

Nothing we have said here indicates that such study of the Bible or of religion, when presented objectively as part of a secular program of education may not be effected consistent with the First Amendment.

But the exercises here do not fall into these categories. They are religious exercises, required by the states in violation of the command of the First Amendment that the government maintain strict neutrality, neither aiding nor opposing religion.

Not Subject To Vote
While the free exercise clause clearly prohibits the use of state action to deny the right to free exercise to anyone, it has never meant that a majority could use the machinery of the state to practice its beliefs.

Such a contention was effectively answered by Mr. Justice Jackson for the Court in West Virginia Board of Education v. Barnette (1943):

"The very purpose of a Bill of Rights was to withdraw certain subjects from the vicissitudes of political controversy to place them beyond the reach of majorities and officials and to establish them as legal principles to be applied by the courts. 'One's right to . . . freedom of worship . . . and other fundamental rights may not be submitted to vote; they depend on the outcome of elections.'"

"The place of religion in our society is an exalted one, achieved through a long tradition of reliance on the home, the church and the inviolable citadel of the individual heart and mind."

We have come to recognize through bitter experience that it is not within the power of government to invade that citadel, whether its purpose or effect be to aid or oppose, to advance or retard.

Dear Abby

Small Catch!

DEAR ABBY: A certain handsome, gray-haired man in this town has never been married and claims he never will be. He would be a real catch for any woman. He boasts that he has had a fling with every attractive woman in town, before she was married. (And a few after.) He claims that they all have told him that he makes their husbands look like schoolboys. My theory is that anybody who brags like this is trying to cover up an inferiority complex. What do you make of him?

LOCAL GIRL

DEAR LOCAL: He's probably a better liar than lover. But as a "real catch for any woman"—I'd be inclined to throw him back in.

DEAR ABBY: What can I say to a woman who calls me on the phone and talks for over an hour? This happens four or five times a week. I try to end the conversation, but it does no good. I've used up all the excuses, like someone is at my door, or company just came in, but she keeps right on talking. My husband threatens to have the phone taken out. I shudder every time my phone rings. Sometimes I don't answer it. I've missed some important calls this way. I don't want to hurt her feelings. What can I do?

SORE EAR

DEAR SORE: The moment you pick up the telephone and hear her voice, say, "I'm sorry, I can't talk to you now"—then hang up. If you do this often enough, she'll get the message. Don't worry about hurting her feelings. If she's as brassy as you say she is, she'll call the next person on her list and talk HER ear off.

DEAR ABBY: We recently gave our lovely daughter a beautiful church wedding. It almost broke our hearts to learn that she is going to have a baby soon. She managed to keep it from us until after the wedding. She must feel terrible to have to face friends and relatives in this condition so soon after her wedding. We had looked forward to the day when we would become grandparents—but not this way. We are a respectable family. Abby, it is so embarrassing. What can we say to people when the gossip starts? Tell me, for the children's sake as well as our own.

A LOVING MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Your daughter's lucky to have a husband. Count your blessings and tell 'em nothing!

DEAR ABBY: I smiled to myself when I read that letter from the teen-ager asking, "How much allowance am I entitled to?" You see, Abby, my husband left me, but my kids are with me 100 per cent. My daughter earns ALL her clothes money babysitting evenings and weekends. She is 16. My son gets up at 4:30 in the morning to deliver newspapers. He is 13. Another of my sons already has $600 put away in the bank for his college education and he is 15. (He runs errands for a druggist.) Please print this for some teen-agers who ask "How much allowance am I entitled to?"

'Where To Go' Top Query Among Summer Vacationers

STROUDSBURG — "As long as we can go, we like it very much," answered Joseph Altomose of Stroudsburg in a Daily Record vacation survey. Altomose, like many others, sees vacation time approaching. The choice of "where to go?" is ever present.

Many face a dilemma of where to go for like Altomose, they "have been so many places."

The Paul J. Dellaria family, of East Stroudsburg plans to visit Brigantine, N.J. this summer.

The seashore is a favorite spot for many people in the Pocono area, and many own cabins there.

Because we are so close, one day's drive will bring us to any beautiful spot on the eastern seaboard from Hyannis Port, Mass. to Rehoboth Beach, Del.

Lakes and mountain resorts are also popular spots, and the Edward G. Evans family of Stroudsburg plans a week at lake Winoka, near Scranton.

The Pocono resort areas rank among the most popular in the east, with the Catskill, N.Y. area also a favorite.

Attractions of resort areas include swimming, boating, fishing, and hiking. Some like to "go European" and camp in mountain areas.

Yellowstone Park

The urge to "go west young man" is still with us, and unless you're lucky enough to have three or four weeks free, you may not have a chance to answer the call. The Norman Potter family of East Stroudsburg plans to drive to Yellowstone National Park, Wyo. For most of us, these long duration trips are just wishful thinking, but the western part of the nation has much to offer; the Grand Canyon, Yellowstone Park, and Nevada's Painted Desert.

When vacationing, most people prefer to drive. Most recreation areas in the east are easily reached by car. Some, like the shores of Maryland and Delaware, are inexpensively and quickly reached by rail.

Other families, like the Howard Miller family of East Stroudsburg, spread their vacation time over two or three periods. The Millers visited upper New York State in May, and they plan to do kitchen remodeling during July.

This method of splitting vacations lets you have fun and do necessary work, without subtracting time needed to do either properly, a consensus of opinion noted.

Whether you plan to drive, go by rail, or do some new home project during your vacation, perhaps the answer to "where to go?" will not be so difficult.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

There is, let's face it, no good time to have a special meeting in Monroe County. In the winter the threat of bad weather hangs over every important date. In July and August it's too hot and too many people are on vacation. In May and October, all the major organizations start off with luncheons and dinners.

Early June is busy with graduation activities, so the fourth Saturday in June seemed like a logical time to have the annual Historical Society summer pilgrimage — at least to the men who checked the calendar.

They should have asked their wives: the fourth Saturday in June is the biggest wedding weekend of the year, and weddings involve an awful lot of people, especially me. Weddings are current history, as historians ought to be the first to acknowledge.

It's Jacob and Daniel Stroud, Nicholas Depui and Daniel Brodhead that the history books mention but their daughters are the ones who brought in the Starbirds, the Hollinsheads, the Bursons, the Colberts.

As a historical footnote for the weekend we might mention that the youngest of the DePuy, Richard Edward, is being married today to a girl from Culpeper, Va. which is also to be the wedding day for Becky Reppert and Ralph Powell and Hildy Schmidt to mention only a few, for whom the forecast of fair and cooler is a happy omen.

I figure that if I wear tennis shoes and run like crazy and don't have too much trouble parking, I can at least get a peek at the brides, who have a very special place in my heart on this particular wedding weekend.

It was just a year ago that I was the mother of the bride, so while the brides have my fondest wishes, it is their mothers to whom I feel most akin. Keep your chin up, girls — you'll not only live through it but look back to enjoy every moment over again — particularly the things that don't go quite the way you'd planned.

Locate Your Own Private Shangri-La

There is no universal prescription for a successful retirement scheme. Each man who is approaching this period in his life must become his own analyst, getting to know his physical and mental make-up better than ever before so he can work out the right prescription for his retirement years.

This is going to be a chore, because never before in your life were you truly the architect of your own fate. It will call for some serious thought and common sense.

The first thing to do is decide what kind of man you are.

Most likely to enjoy his business menopause is the man who, though he enjoys people when thrown into contact with them, suffers no feelings of anxiety when left to his own resources. If he happens to have a wife who can renounce her life to complement his disposition, they will be reasonably contented most any place as long as they have each other.

The other great classification includes those individuals who suffer acutely when they find themselves alone. The first man was something of an egotist, perfectly satisfied with himself and his own company, while the other needs the crowd to feel at ease. Neither man is happy in the environment that means so much to the other.

It should not be too hard to classify yourself. Do not try to change at this late date.

Next in importance is whether you move easily or are content to stay where you are.

If you are a Vermont man, pick a neighborhood full of Vermont people, even if it is on a tropical isle. If you grew up in the mountains of the northeast or northwest, do not expect to get a life-long thrill out of Florida, California or the desert.

Miss Candace Johnson Is Bride of Dr. John Thomas

Bangor — Miss Candace Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Urbanus M. Johnson, Sr., Bangor, Me., was married yesterday afternoon to Dr. John Evans Thomas, son of the late Dr. Thomas, Sr. and the late Dr. Thomas, Jr., Methodist Church, Bangor.

Rev. Paul Callender of the Bangor, N. J., Methodist Church, presided.

Barrett GOP Council Monday

Barrett — A description of gem making from the raw stones to the finished product will be featured at the meeting of the Barrett Council of Republican Women on Monday night at 8 at the Barrett YMCA. Martin Schneider will demonstrate the process.

Mrs. Donald Bach, president, will preside at the business meeting when a report will be given of the meeting in Bethlehem when Robert Bartlett was nominated as Republican candidate for the post left vacant by Rep. Francis Walters. Members will vote on the revision to the by-laws which have been approved by the executive board.

Sunshine Class Picnic Tuesday

East Stroudsburg — The Sunshine class of the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church will hold the annual picnic at the East Stroudsburg playgrounds on Tuesday night at 6:30 with families and friends invited. Each family is asked to bring a covered dish and beverage.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Russell Imb, chairman; Mrs. Grady Moore, Mrs. Cyrus Smith, Mrs. Howard Eckert, Mrs. Russell Transue, Mrs. Verdon Gilliland, and Mrs. Raymond Bensley. In case of rain the supper will be held at the church.

Note Radio Series

Officers of the Monroe County Council of United Church Women have asked all members to listen to a new radio broadcast series, "A Look at the National Council of Churches," over the ABC network to begin Sunday, June 23. Time of the broadcast will be from 10 to 10:30 p.m.

The hottest places on the list of Shangri-Las for oldsters today are Phoenix, Ariz., and similar desert spots. To one who has lived many years near the sage brush, rattlesnakes and rabbits, that country looks familiar and, therefore, beautiful. But to one who was raised in a more wooded and greener landscape, it looks as though the Creator had finished up his work with an enormous bios-toch.

Don't Expect Perfection

Don't move any place with the idea that it is going to be perfect or a close facsimile of the golden shore. If you are not willing to put up with a lot of nature's peculiar and unfamiliar moods, you had better stay right where you are. The grass may look greener just over the fence, but close examination will show that it grows better too.

In picking your retirement location, remember that climate is not everything. Social and religious environment have a great deal to do with your prospective happiness and that means, of course, that you will not be very comfortable unless your wife can find a social atmosphere similar to that which she left behind.

So I repeat: study yourself, your wife and the spot you have been dreaming about where you won't have to shovel snow. Your first choice may have to last you till the end and I have seen some wonderful dreams shattered because men did not look before they leaped. At retirement age it is not so easy to pick yourself up and start out anew.

While we are on the subject of where to live during the retirement years, I would like to tell you something about these communities that are being built exclusively for senior citizens.

Apparently the builders of these

Have You Heard ...
... the general requirements for "Foster Homes"?
They are—that there be both husband and wife, that there be a steady income, to insure stability of the home; that there be physical room for a child and a separate bed; that there be willingness to work with agency requirements and insight into the different kinds of problems foster children may present; and that there be evidence of harmony between members of the foster family and between family and community. THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

Once again I'm gorging! In the weeks preceding our Wyckoff-Hadassah Fashion Show, I was more lively conscious than ever before in my life. Mardee Albert had selected a gown for me in New York, and it fit as though I had been poured into it. Thereafter I had a guilt feeling that almost became a complex whenever I was caught eating a piece of pie, a doughnut with my morning coffee, or a chocolate bar mid-afternoon. I spent most of my time at home hopping onto and off of the scales. When I gained a pound I suffered. I suffered too when I lost one. It would be just as bad to have my gown "outgrow" me as it would be to outgrow my gown.

Luckily, when I slipped into it Thursday evening at Tamiment, it zipped in all the proper places with no room to spare. But it's a good thing the show is over. Even for the sake of looking presentable before an audience of six or seven hundred persons, a female who loves food cannot starve herself forever. That dress, by the way, has won dozens of compliments for me. Actually it is our Wyckoff dress department that deserves them (particularly Mardee) because I had nothing at all to do with its selection, only the right to veto it if I were not pleased. Mardee did well by me. The dress is chiffon in such a delicate shade of pink I find it difficult to describe in any floral term. It is actually a very simple sheath, with a deeply rounded neckline quite low in back. From each wrist falls a scalloped drapery that ties at the back neckline. When I extend both arms the effect is that of a big butterfly.

Because of the dapperly, our jewelry department considered it best that I wear just a pin at the neckline and matching, short earrings. These were of green brilliants encircling a cluster of two-toned pink rosebuds.

Norma Lohman of our Wyckoff Beauty Salon "French twisted" my hair, and I wore a comb of pink pearl loaned for the occasion by Marge Muehlman, also of our Beauty Salon staff. Norma, whose little sister, Debbie, was one of our child models, was on hand to comb my hair at Tamiment if (as is customary) I arrived in a tousled state.

This is the first year we have shown dresses in the Wyckoff portion of the show. Eleven were included, and the reaction from those who attended has been most gratifying. I can't tell you how many times today friends and strangers have commented upon the dramatic red and black patio dress modeled by Norma Greenstein, just 23.00; the black sheath with draped bodice and low-cut back chosen by Elaine Brehm, at 15.00; Kate Mullins' cotton lace sheath with flowers tinted in soft pastel shades and scattered sequins of matching shade, 25.00; the adorable shifts at 11.00, and the wonderful Sportswear separates by Sacony, Suburban Sets, and Rosecrest that are approximately 18.00.

Fake Furs, including Phony Pony, leopard, zebra; baby calf, and Persian scored excitingly too, as worn by the Chet Miller children and Nan McClelland, and the fake furs for women modeled by Sally Ferber, who selected an "at home" skirt, ankle length; Mildred Lawson who wore black and white "fur" vest with stretch pants and white blouse; and Diane Shafer who chose a jumper-shift trimmed with leather.

No Wonder Wahines Like Luau's; Linda Collects Favorite Recipes

By Linda Fisher
Daily Record Home Economist

On a cold winter day last February Mrs. Henrietta Baldwin told me that she had just been to a meeting of the Hawaiian group and had eaten the best hot chicken salad. She was sure that Mrs. Irene Martucci of Brodheadville would give me the recipe if I called. The name rung a bell with me and it finally dawned on me that Bobby Westbrook had also told me that Mrs. Martucci was a wonderful cook and brought such good food to her luau's.

She's not only well known with the Hawaiian group for her name has been mentioned to me several times since. When I called her she was most gracious about sharing recipes and told me that we have a lot in common. Besides loving to cook and reading cookbooks as I do, she is also a Home Economics graduate! After graduating from Marywood College, she was a dietitian in Philadelphia hospitals before marrying Dr. John.

The first recipe I asked for, of course, was the chicken almond salad. Mrs. Baldwin told me that she has served it at several luncheons; it's one of those easy, good recipes to use all year long.

Irene's Hot Chicken Almond Salad

Mix together:
2 cup cooked chicken cut in large pieces
2 cups diced celery
1/2 teaspoon curry powder (optional)

1/4 cup mayonnaise
Salt and pepper to taste
Put in four individual baking dishes and sprinkle with toasted slivered almonds. Bake until thoroughly heated (about 20 minutes) at 350 degrees.

I don't know which the Hawaiian group enjoys more — the dancing or their luau's! By the sounds of these recipes, I think they have as much fun eating as they do practicing the hula! This is another favorite of our Pocono dancers.

Beans and Cheese Soup

1/4 cup shredded sharp cheese
American Cheddar
6 slices bacon, crisp cooked and coarsely crumbled
2 cups packaged biscuit mix
3 tablespoons bacon drippings
Stir cheese and bacon bits into dry biscuit mix; prepare dough according to package directions for rich biscuits, substituting bacon drippings for salad oil. Knead dough as directed for rolled biscuits, then roll in a 10 x 6 inch rectangle, 1/4 inch thick. Cut in six 10 inch strips, 1 inch wide; cut each in thirds crosswise to make a total of 18 sticks, about 1 x 3 inches. Place 1 inch apart on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in very hot oven (450) about 10 minutes or till done.

CULINARY EXPERT — Irene Martucci's cooking is famous not only with her family, Dr. John and the boys, in Brodheadville, but with the Monroe County Medical Aux. of which she is president, and the Wahines of the Poconos who count on her Chinese recipes for many of their luau's.

- 1 11 oz. can (1 and one-third cups) mandarin oranges, well drained
- 1 cup Thompson seedless grapes
- 1 cup tiny marshmallows
- 1 3/4 ounce can (about one and one-third cups) flaked coconut
- 2 cups dairy sour cream
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

Combine fruits, marshmallows, and coconut. Stir in sour cream and salt. Chill overnight. Makes 8 servings.

Alongside this next recipe for a shrimp casserole, Mrs. Martucci has a note. "This is superb!" Now how can you resist trying it?

Superb Shrimp Casserole

- 2 1/2 pounds large raw shrimp, shelled and deveined
- 1 tablespoon fresh, frozen, or canned lemon juice
- 3 tablespoons salad oil
- 1/2 cup raw regular or processed rice or 1 cup packaged pre-cooked rice
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1/4 cup minced green pepper
- 1/4 cup minced onion
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon mace
- Dash cayenne pepper
- 1 10 1/2 ounce can unskiluted, condensed tomato soup
- 1 cup heavy cream
- 1/2 cup sherry
- 1/2 cup slivered blanched almonds

Cook shrimp in boiling salted water for five minutes; drain. Place in 2 quart casserole; sprinkle with lemon juice and salad oil. Meanwhile, cook rice as label directs; drain. Refrigerate all, for at least four hours.

About 1 hour and ten minutes before serving, start heating oven to 350. Set aside about 8 shapely shrimp for garnish.

In butter in skillet, saute green pepper and onion for 5 minutes. Add with rice, salt, pepper, mace, cayenne pepper, soup, cream, sherry, and 1/2 cup almonds, to shrimp in casserole. Toss well.

Painters Make Agreement

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Striking painters reached tentative agreement yesterday on a contract to end a 19-day-old work stoppage.

Only the Asbestos Workers Union, one of 12 in the Buffalo area building trades industry that struck May 30, remained on strike.

Terms of the painters contract call for a wage increase of 36 cents an hour over a three-year period. Approximately 1,000 painters, who will return to work Thursday, will vote on the pact later in the week.

Present wage scales were unavailable.

The initial walkouts killed approximately 12,000 workers in the Buffalo area and halted about $60 million in projects.

HAPPY BEACHHEAD

If you've ever taken a child to the seashore, you know what that first glimpse of the ocean can mean to a youngster . . . the lure of fascination . . . the foreboding of fear. Which will win the struggle? But what a delight when hesitation ends and Jeannie finds her happy beachhead down where the waves wane, and the tide seeks its rest. And if you've ever taken a child to Sunday School, you know what that first glimpse of strange surroundings can mean. But, even if there are misgivings that first Sunday, Jeannie soon finds her happy beachhead. And one day she'll plunge bravely and confidently into deeper reaches of the vast spiritual ocean that surrounds life. Anything as vital as religious education deserves an early and earnest beginning.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Arnie Rallies, Leads Open; Nicklaus Fails To Make Cut

Associated Press Sports Writer

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)—Arnold Palmer staged another of his fabulous rallies Friday and shot into a tie with Dow Finsterwald and Jacky Cupit for the 36-hole lead in the National Open Golf Championship at even par 142 after defending champion Jack Nicklaus had blown himself out of the tournament.

The incredible Palmer, starting the day four shots out of first place, nailed two birdies on the back-breaking opening nine of The Country Club course for a 35-41-48.

Palmer's closest golfing friend, the cool, conservative Finsterwald, also fired a second round 69—two under par—while Cupit, one of five golfing brothers from Texas, finished at 72 after blowing a chance for the unshared lead with a double bogey 3 on the 18th hole.

Big Blowup

The biggest blowup, however, was experienced by the 25-year-old Nicklaus, who sited to an agonizing 77 after an opening round 78 for a 36-hole score of 155, 11 over par.

He failed to survive the cut, reducing the 150-man field to the low 50 players and ties.

After turning in even par 35, Palmer rolled in a curling, down-hill 10-footer at the nightmarish, blind 12th hole — his second straight birdie here — and pulled even with the leaders with a fantastic shot at the 36-yard 17th.

Here, the Latrobe, Pa., golfer did bungle a beautiful drive down the left side of the fairway and, with the wind whipping across the course, laid a velocity wedge shot over the edge of the yawning trap to within 7 feet of the pin.

With the bulk of the 17,000 second day crowd stamping at his heels, Palmer closed his round with a hard-earned par. After splitting the fairway with a booming drive, he hoisted his wedge approach into the wind and caught the left corner of the green, at least 45 feet from the pin.

He putted but left the ball six feet short. Then he sank confidently for his 69.

As the tournament moved into its exhausting, double-round climax Saturday, there wasn't a score on the board under par for the two rounds.

It was a victory for the historic, English-style course, with its 6,700 yards of wire-tough rough, tricky knolls, peat bogs and puddles' rock protruding from many of the fairways.

Par is 36-36-71.

Behind the three pace-setters came building Walter Burkemo of Franklin Hills, Mich., the former PGA champion, and Dean Refram, a 25-year-old ex-football quarterback from Medina, Ill., tied at 143.

Refram, a pro of less than three years, latched an even par 71 to an earlier 72. Burkemo had the same figures, in reverse, 72-71.

Tied at 145 were Tony Lena, the handsome pro from San Leandro, Calif., who has been bidding for top honors, and Davis Love Jr., of Charlotte, N.C., a young home pro. Both had second-round 74s.

Nicklaus, the reigning Masters and Open champion and leading money winner of the year, saw his confidence and powerful game both explode before his eyes like a big, overtaxed balloon.

He couldn't drive. His usually flawless irons were missing their target and he didn't sink an important putt. His wedge failed him half a dozen times of the simplest of assignments around the greens—from bunkers and the frog's hair fringes.

"There was not much out there," he said. "I just didn't have the feel."

Jimmy Clark, 41-year-old pro from Huntington Beach, Calif., made a strong charge at the lead but finished with a brace of double bogey 6 for a 74 and 148. He was one shot ahead of old Sam Snead, 51, who had 74-75-149.
